

Amber Turpin

"That Was Her Way"

Visit "That Was Her Way" on MotoLyrics.com

That Was Her Way
By Amber Turpin
February 1, 2005

We never discussed
What had happened that day
She preferred to keep silent
Cause that was her way

I wish I had known
What I know here today
I'd have offered her comfort
In some form or way

Mama always kept quiet
When it came to her pain
Though her heart had been broken
She never complained

He left without notice

One day with no words
The man of her dreams
Disappointed her world

I was busy with children the
Day to day chores
Consumed my attention
My thoughts were not hers

Mom was never the same
But she never complained
Though her heart had been broken
She kept quiet her pain

Her twilight time
Came with the day to day same
Mom passed away quietly
She never complained

Visit Amber Turpin page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
