Mom and dad have won the match
They've put the door on the catch Where should I go?
Is there a place where I don't have to leave?
I've been waiting till now

Half my life I have been running away from the pressure at home
Relocating my bed to the bar

Eyes that set my world on fire
Knowing exactly what I desire Make my day
I'd do anything to hear you say you don't have to leave
I've been waiting for you

Half my life I have been running away from the
pressure at home
Relocating my bed to the bar

Come with me, I have a room where we can go to And stay with me 'cause I need someone to take care of You're the one, to you I feel attracted Yes, you're the one, you are young and unprotected

Half my life I have been running away from the
pressure at home
Relocating my bed to the bar
