Used to run across the sun, used to think that I was the one
I was still chasing the wind, back to home and back again
I used to watch you play, I used to think that I could stay
I was thinking I was in, but life is not just what you win

It's a, long way down, it's, quite far down, it's a long way to the ground, if you don't breathe

Used to laugh at the rain, I used to think that I was sane Rode the bus all way through town, thought I'd see what's going around Picking shapes out of the sky, wondering why the hell why
Listening to them say, there will always be another day

It's a, long way down, it's, quite far down, you won't see the ground, if you don't breathe

I used to be fine with away, but love's got too many shades of gray
I was thinking I had you, but you can't tell life what to do

It's a, long way down, it's, quite far down, you can't see the ground, if you don't breathe
It's a, long way down, it's, quite far down, you can't see
the ground, if you don't breathe
If you don't breathe, if you don't breathe, if you don't breathe
