

411

"I Shook The Ground When I Spoke My Words"

Visit "I Shook The Ground When I Spoke My Words" on MotoLyrics.com

My cities are collapsing to the ground, every building that I've built,
Will be burned by dawn as I stare in disbelief.
Oh the pavement's filled with cracks, and my skies have turned to black,
This throne weighs so heavy.
The throne that I stood atop is crumbling down beneath my very feet,
All that I've worked for is gone, gone,
All I can do is panic and try.
Try to wash the blood from my hands, I've shed all my skins.
And now I'm left with these pure shades of red,
But maybe I can find a way to change and rebuild every city
I must stop, or I could lose it all cuz' I hold this world in the palm of my hand.

I've set these cities ablaze, but I can't let them burn to the ground,
I can't let them burn.

Maybe I can find a way to change and rebuild every
city,
I must stop, or I could lose it all cuz' I hold this world in the palm of my hand ooh,
The people stand, and sing it out with me
They keep singing ooooh ooooh ooh oohh.
I lit the match, and I watched it burn, my cities ablaze,
my cities ablaze!
I shook the ground, when I spoke my words, my cities ablaze and I lost the world!
My cities ablaze and I lost the world!

Visit 411 page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.