

411"Kiss Me Only With Your Eyes"Visit "Kiss Me Only With Your Eyes" on MotoLyrics.com

Mary daly drove one day to town
In her virgin's veil and wedding gown
When the priest said: "you may kiss the bride,"
Mary pulled her veil down as she sighed:
"kiss me only with your eyes
More than this I should despise
This and no more, if you can
As you are a gentleman,"
And rapped his knuckles with her fan

Mary daly - her name didn't change
At the end of life was just as strange
Just when they thought mary was deceased
Her eyes opened and she told the priest:
"kiss me only with your eyes
More than this I should despise
This and no more, if you can
As you are a gentleman,"
And rapped his knuckles with her fan

Mary daly, having done good things
Went to see our savior for her wings
She stood in line waiting to be kissed
But when our lord bent over her, she hissed:
"kiss me only with your eyes
More than this I should despise
This and no more, if you can
As you are a gentleman,"
And rapped his knuckles with her fan

"so kiss me only with your eyes
More than this I should despise
This and no more, if you can
As you are a gentleman
Kiss me only with your eyes
Kiss me only with your eyes,"

Visit 411 page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

