simple, sweet guitar
humbled by the bass when the beat kicks in everything falls in to place and it overpowers me i can't help but dance you can try to stop me now but you won't get the chance half time, time to make it through consider the change

see it from a different view half time, time to think it through

rhythm floods my heart the melody it feeds my soul the tune tears me apart and it swallows me whole you should thank your lucky stars cause the music is a gift and it's stronger than all else provides me with a bliss.

consider the change

my lyrics reveling
some natural vibe to find the lay back feeling does that it right every phrase Sinatra sings it's too much to say, yeah so i sing this endless sheet it pacifies my ache
