

Amy Winehouse

"Hey Pretty Rich Girl"

Visit "Hey Pretty Rich Girl" on MotoLyrics.com

I bought you a fur coat when you were fifteen
You wore it to the disco, but everyone was in jeans

But you were just a rich girl, only having fun
Your worn out dresses, drew stares from everyone
Hey, little rich girl where did you go wrong?

You left for London, when you were nineteen
Had to pawn all your nice clothes, just living on dreams
A man in the bright lights took all that you own
Now he's taken your freedom for a taste unknown

But you were just a rich girl, only having fun
Your worn out dresses, brought stares from everyone
Hey, little rich girl where did you go wrong?

Hey, little rich girl you've been away for so long
And now little rich girl, I wrote you in this song

Hey, little rich girl baby love is gone
And now little rich girl, I know where you belong

At your dad's office party all the movies were blue
You caused him so much heart ache, cause the screen star was you
You left for London, when you were nineteen
Had to pawn all your nice clothes, just living on dreams

But you were a rich girl, only having fun
Your worn out dresses, brought stares from everyone
Hey, little rich girl where did you go wrong?
Hey, little rich girl where did you go wrong?!

Visit Amy Winehouse page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.