F G C Remembering promises
F G C once made but now unspoken
F G C born of child-like minds
F G C
these shadows are now forsaken

From the dawn of the first day
F G
to this death-bed on which you lay
to survive we must comply
F G
with the ritual of your life

Can you remember things we said the dream is our expectation like ashes scattered in the wind there's no recollection

Throughout the yelling cheers faith will allay your years follow the holy rites in the ritual of life

Try to remember if you can the pacts we made solemn hands of time have bought decay the memories are forgotten

Now as you reach the end all pain you'll transcend when you die you can't deny the ritual of life
