I drive by that brick house
Where we used to live.
All these memories rush back now
Oh, remember when...

You'd sing me a new song
Every single night.
And I'd try to sing along
Just to see you smile.

~Chorus~
But now I'm getting older
And you're not around.
And my heart grows colder
Whenever I think about how.
You got up and left me
Stranded, all by myself.
Oh, why don't you love me?
Maybe you don't love yourself.

Now people they ask me
When they see me in town.
They wonder how you're doing
And I tell them, I don't know.

And I lay awake some nights
Wondering if you miss me too.
Yeah, there's some nights when I cry
And others when I hate you.

~Chorus~

You know, it's so hard to say
What I would say today
If I somehow came across you somewhere.
But I can't lie
I know that I wouldn't cry
'Cause there's one thing I've learned how to do
And that's...I don't care.

~Chorus~
