[based on "Those Who have Eyes to See Will See" by Willie Christopher Tucker]

Eight months pregnant.
Homeless crack addict
From the south side of town.
Angel All alone.

Can't decide
If to confide.

Caught in a lifestyle
For which she knows no relief.
Day after day,
Night after night,
Utterly impoverished
Surrounded by filth.
Depressed,
And wishing she were dead.

Low self- esteem,
Only seventeen.

Been molested,
Been raped,
Been beaten to the ground
Been molested,
Been raped,
By the men that promised
To keep her safe and sound.

Low self- esteem,

Only seventeen.

Forced to sell her body
And tormented soul -
Depressed,
And wishing she were dead.

Talking to her unborn child -
No one else listens to what she says.

"How long God must I suffer this way,
Please don't force me to endure another day"

Angel is pregnant -
Baby, one month due.
I remember her say -
Those who have eyes to see
Will see.

In what she said
I surmised
That look on her face -
With tears in her eyes.

To escape her pain
She decides life ain't worth livin'.
Angel walks into the path
Of the Marta Train,
The nine forty- five.
