Should you expect to see something that you hadn't seen

In somebody you'd known since you were sixteen If love is a bolt from the blue, then what is that bolt but a glorified screw?

And that doesn't hold nothing together

Far from these nonsense bars and their nowhere music it's making me sick

And I know it's making you sick
There's nothing there, it's like eating air
It's like drinking gin with nothing else in
That doesn't hold me together.

But for one crowded hour, you were the only one in the room

And I sailed around all those bumps in the night to your beacon in the gloom

I thought I had found my golden September in the middle of that purple June

But one crowded hour would lead to my wreck and ruin

Now I know you like your boys to take their medicine From the bowl with a silver spoon

Run away with the dish and scare the fish by the silvery light of the moon

Who were taught from the womb to believe to the tune In as far as their bleeding eyes see

Is a pleasure pen, meant for them, built for and rent for them

Not for the likes of me

Not for the like of you and me

And for one crowded hour, you were the only one in the room

And I sailed around all those bumps in the night to your beacon in the gloom

I thought I had found my golden September in the middle of that purple June

But one crowded hour would lead to my wreck and ruin

Oh but the green-eyed harpy of the songland She takes into hers my hand She says, "Boy I know you're lying Oh but then, so am I," And to that I said "Oh well."

They put me in a cage full of lions, I learned to speak lion
In fact I know the language well
I picked it up while I was versing myself in the languages they speak in hell
That night, the silence gave birth to a baby
They took it away to her silent dismay
And they raised it to be lady
Now she can't keep her mouth shut

But for one crowded hour, you were the only one in the room

And I sailed around all those bumps in the night to your beacon in the gloom

I thought I had found my golden Sentember in the

I thought I had found my golden September in the middle of that purple June

But one crowded hour would lead to my wreck and ruin

One crowded hour, you were the only one in the room Well I played a few songs for those bumps in the night In fact I played this very tune

You said, "What is this six-stringed instrument but an adolescent doom?"

And one crowded hour would lead to my wreck and ruin.
