

And The Sky Went Red "I Will, Don't Make Me"

The distant silence seems so loud
Words rising from my heart to my throat
We'll watch this die tonight, it dies tonight

This broken heart will fade away
I'm looking forward to that day
To speak the words i've longed to hear
And thoughts of you will disappear

It seems to right to say these words from my heart to you

I did no wrong
Stitch my wounds up with a brand new lie
And i'll close my eyes to hear you cry

I can't wait for promises to be broken, like you
If you shattered into pieces i won't be there
To put you back together again
This broken heart will fade away
