Tying hope strings around my heart, this lying smile fading in the dark I'd kill for just one more chance - a silhouette of what we could have

The words choke in my throat
When i think of what i need to say right now Pry off this mask made of falsities and i'll return my heart to you
These minutes are like miles and i'm too far away from you
These streets call my name tonight
To catch just one more glimpse Of the angel that i set free from captivity
From the cell inside my soul

I need to have your kisses, like punches Knocking me off my feet again
