Staring at a window
On this cold November night
The leaves are steady falling
And it makes you wonder why
The summer has to die
Why it all falls apart
When you wait so long
For a change to come
And this may you thinking
Maybe this is really gonna be the one

Now the winter's far behind
And you finally get it right
And the sunlight finally shines on you
Suddenly snow in June
Suddenly snow in June yeah

Imagine what it feels like
To find the joy in life
It's everything you wish for
And loose it over night
And though it broke your heart
You still get back in light
'Cause you wait so long
For a change to come
And this may you thinking
Maybe this is really gonna be the one

Now the winter's far behind
And you finally get it right
And the sunlight finally shines on you
Suddenly snow in June
Oh suddenly snow in June

Oh although you seemed to lost
Your guiding light
And though all your turns
Have not been right
And though you may be feeling left behind
Never ever loose your faith in life

Now the winter's far behind
And you finally get it right
And the sunlight finally shines on you
Suddenly snow in June yeah
Suddenly snow in June
Suddenly snow in June
Yeah snow in June
