Can't believe she's gone
I Can't believe she's gone
I Can't believe she's gone away

Darkness was my future
Hopeless were the patterns
Callous was my heart, so it seems

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I'm repairing my heart for you
Oh and I should breathe a little bit softer
Oxygen reminds me I lost her
I'm repairing my heart for you

Can't believe she's gone, I
Folded on the creases
Tore myself to pieces now

But blessed was the daylight that Flooded my hearts windows, and
Cleared the smoke that billows out

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I'm repairing my heart for you
Oh and I should breathe a little bit softer
Oxygen reminds me I lost her
I'm repairing my heart for you

Peace my body, Oh my soul - to find, no I don't mind
Break my hardened heart to show, that I, yea I was blind
Lay my body on the shore, to find, no I don't mind

Can't believe she's gone, I'm Casting out the demons
Letting go of reasons why

Welcome was the daylight that Found where I was hiding, and Fought the dark residing there

Oh, I should sing a little bit faster
I'm to blame for this disaster
I'm repairing my heart for you
Oh and I should breathe a little bit softer

Chemicals remind me I lost her
I'm repairing my heart for you
