Light waves crash upon your face
You are drowning in your fame
Light waves crash upon your face
And you're the one I save

It was raining on the very first day we met
We were running in the rain when you caught my breath
We both got wet
But you weren't drowning yet

When the clouds were gone your talent shone from far away
I was determined that I never would let you fray
We both did stray
But you moved toward today

I'll always go
Soothe you
When your heart aches

'Cause you
Always know
That my heart's your escape

Light waves crash upon your face
You are drowning in your fame
Light waves crash upon your face
And you're the one I save

Crowds surrounded you to catch a glimpse of your voice
Since your talent's found you really don't have a choice
Let's make some noise
And let go of simple joys

I couldn't let you go but you had to board the plane
We both are left alone leaning on our windowpanes
That's life in the fast lane
So try not to complain

I'll always go

Soothe you
When your heart aches

'Cause you
Always know
That my heart's your escape

I'm always gonna lift you up
You're never gonna let me down
They're always gonna follow us
And run around and run around

I'm always gonna lift you up
You're never gonna let me down
They're always gonna follow us
And run around and run around

I'm always gonna lift you up
You're never gonna let me down
They're always gonna follow us

And I'll always go
Soothe you
When your heart aches

'Cause you
Always know
That my heart's your escape

Look back at what we've done
Look at who we've become
The war is never done
But our hearts have surely won
