The A.M. dawns again
And Iâ€™m seeking the Source
Searching the force, longing for warmth
That Iâ€™ve never ever felt before Cuz I cannot find more of life
In this crazy world that seems to leave me dry Itâ€™s only with You
That I find my way through

Another breath to breathe
In this heat of the day
Iâ€™m finding a way, but feeling the strain
Thereâ€™s a pressure in the air that preys
But there is a light in this life And itâ€™s You, the star, that guides when Iâ€™m lost at night
So light up the sky
A ray of life to every eye

Whenever your light shines
I can always find Something more of life
Whenever You break through Take me somewhere new Deeper into you

The A.M. dawns again
And Iâ€™m hearing your voice
Iâ€™m making the choice, no room for toys
Only life light brings me joy
Cuz when I can find you in life
All the crazy things around me seem to dull and die
Itâ€™s always been you Carrying me through
Behind the Song:
'I was walking and listening to music around the cliff tops where I live. As I was praying, God gave me a clear picture of a dark room. As I pounded on the door in this room, cracks started to appear and a shaft of light would break through and dissolve the darkness. I then called on my good friend Neil to write some lyrics that would sum up that pictureâ€¦standing in the light.'
