You're not always easy to share space with.
Some days you wake up ten times bigger than you are.
I can't get my arms around you
And we are silent worlds apart.
Should I introduce myself?

I'm pleased to meet you
You don't seem to recognise me
But you know you look just like someone
That I used to know.
I'm pleased to meet you
You know I think you used to love me
But now it seems like that was a whole lifetime ago.

If you don't look at me do I disappear?
And all you say these days are things I don't wanna hear.
I don't think that you remember (I don't think that you recall)
It was always you and me against the world.

But I'll introduce myself

I'm pleased to meet you
You don't seem to recognise me
But you know you look just like someone
That I used to know.
I'm pleased to meet you
You know I think you used to love me
But now it seems like that was a whole lifetime ago.

So I guess I'll see you round sometime
And one day you might Think we've met before
You'll turn to me and say,

I'm pleased to meet you
You don't seem to recognise me
But you know you look just like someone that I used to know...

I'm pleased to meet you

You know I think you used to love me
But now it seems like that was a whole lifetime ago.
