"You're Not Dead So Stop Acting Like It"

You're dreaming away, wasting away sitting pretty on clouds lined with silver your veins are rich, your wallet is poor face down on the floor colored pills and hospital beds vultures come to swarm overhead white washed walls darker than skin the smell of death is the only thing keeping you alive the needle still isn't the cure for your ailing heart cardiac arrest is followed by a flatline disconnect this love from within your veins everyone knows how the story goes silver lining is a dull grey up close
