Saturated with sex stereotypes gender roles reinforce inferiority Exploiting anatomy, exploiting sexuality, preying on insecurities Force fed proper mannerisms, treated different from the date of birth Raised as men's servants who should never question their own sense of worth Conditioning children with anorexic plastic of 'perfect' feminine traits Learning how to hide any blemishes, meeting standards men create Painting flesh like painting a picture that subliminally suggests To equally conditioned men that women are just there for sex Striving to achieve the super model image the media project Spending countless hours enhancing a look instead of self respect Eating disorders insuring beauty and endangering health When living life behind a mask you can't expect to know yourself

When women are taught one way to act and men are taught another
The ability to accept and tolerate is absent from each other Without understanding or communication the result too often is Bigotry by ignorance unintended prejudice
Any man that would treat a woman as property you keep Is nothing but an ignorant bigot that can only see skin deep Having a relationship of inequality, treating a woman as a possession Taking advantage of devotion using emotions as a weapon Violating another's personal rights as if they never mattered

Every day that begins with this conditioning ends with another woman battered

Taught how to act, taught how to think

Taught how to feel, told by another gender

Sexist appeal dehumanizes women molding an image

Making the body more important than what the person is

Taught to pretend, taught to please

Taught to conceal, told that you must surrender

Sexist appeal demoralizes men, distorting their view

Making the body the most important part to pursue

Initiating a chase that relies on deception

Hoping persistent efforts will overcome rejection

Conditioned by images lusting for sex

Haunting men's thoughts of who they'll bed next

Taught how to act, taught how to think

Sexist appeal dehumanizes women by abusing sexuality

Another person's body shouldn't be viewed as a trophy

Taught to pretend, taught to please

Taught how to feel, told that you must surrender

Sexist appeal demoralizes men, encouraging rape

Another person's body is never for anyone else to take Treating a fellow person without any respect

Condemning behavior as if the woman asked for it

Society's distorted our judgement with what they suggest

Why take no for an answer when no really means yes

[Woman's part]

We've heard it all so many times before

Stop treating women like some trashy cheap whore

Or a virgin that must lead to a sterile life

A surrogate mother under the disguise of the word wife

They make the rules but yet they don't play fair

Forcing sexual stereotypes that make us all aware

Of every single one of our failures in the eyes of society

Telling me that I'm not quite what I'm supposed to be

I'm not married with two children or single with a career

I'm not drowning in some mortgage or living in financial fear

I don't cower as I walk home all alone throughout the streets

I refuse to be treated like a piece of trumped up meat

I turn away from the billboards that extol the latest fad

Of looking like a junkie in the Calvin Klein ad

Now it's time to get beyond all of our rage and pointing fingers

To see through the lies no matter how much it lingers

[Man's part]

As long as I can remember ive been a victim of mans lies

And in turn ive victimized women through ignorant naive eyes

When overlooking personality in the person im seeing Then my attraction becomes the exploitation of another human being

In my heart I know equality but conditioning affects my brain

So without complete understanding oppression will remain

For as enlightened as I may consider myself I still have much to learn

And since actually achieving equality still is a concern I must open my mind to the opinions that women would suggest

Because they're the ones who understand sexual oppression best

As a man im part of the problem that's something I must accept

Unless through education I can evolve towards a mutual respect

Everyone of us should realize how our struggle now relates

And how as equals we can destroy what society dictates

We can hopefully find a way to respectfully co-exist
And then eliminate the biggest prejudice that exists

[Both together]

Because this is not about man vs. woman or woman vs.
man

But human to human as we struggle to understand Were living life suspiciously believing there's no one we can trust

They're dividing the population the system is destroying us

Profiting from this division and the line of thinking that's been bought

If equality is ever to exist we have to unlearn what weve been taught

Bigotry by ignorance unintended prejudice
