Okay, so,
We're in love.
I bet you never ever saw this life coming.
28 and 19, they say, what do you mean.
You got so much to learn.
Don't be silly. She's only a child.
Don't be foolish. Girl is he worth your while.
A child she might be, but she's more mature than you can see.
And Mama, believe, he's worth everything to me.
And there's so much, so mu-uh-uh-ch, so much to learn.
There's so much, so mu-uh-uh-ch, so much to-o learn.

Okay, so, who lied to you?
Telling you numbers, and love and chemistry.
Cause I'm a witness to true love,
and I'll give my testimony.
It comes in different sizes and shapes and,
no body looks the same.
You got to appreciate God's creations.
Appreciate everything he made.
Cause there's so much, so mu-uh-uh-ch, so much to learn.
There's so much, so mu-uh-uh-ch, so much to learn.
Oh, so when we fall, and you know we will.
Let's remember age is a number still.
And when we call ourselves one, let's remember how this romance began.
And when we fall and you know we will, let's remember age is a number still.
And when heartache gets the best of me, I'll remember
how your love set me free.
On that coffee day-hey-ay-yay-ay.Yay-ay-ay-ay-yay.
