I was sailing along, a happy cloud in the sky
Feeling so good, just having fun
Then one starry night when the moon was high
You heated me up like a warm summer sun
I should have slipped away, cos a cloud can rain
In the heat of a sun that's too bright
But the lights in your hair and your eyes shining clear
You made me feel so good, you made me feel so right
And although my smile is wide, there is an ocean deep inside
Look deep into my eyes, you will see the stakes are high
The waves rise constantly
Dark clouds gather over me

Can't you see I'm drowning
Can't you see I'm drowning
How could I resist your arms warm around me
Thunder and lightning every time you touched me
And when I had all but just melted away
You left me alone to compete with the rain
Now my tears green the valleys
They fill rivers and oceans
How was I to know I could feel such emotion
And the lights in your hair, your eyes shining clear
You made me feel so good, you made me feel so right
