I bet you realize this time that
When you see my friends sitting outside they were There to help me pack my bags
And tell me don't listen to you if you're beggin'

'Cause they know I'm coming straight back home to you
And they know I'm a constant fool for you
So I'm putting my things on the u haul
And I'm blockin' out your number when you call

No conversation, you can keep your words
'Cause ninety percent I done already heard
How long did you think that I would sit here for?
I'm letting you know it's not exceptional

And no conversation, you can save the games
And anything you say, I will remain the same
How long did you think that I would sit here for?
Destroying my soul, it ain't exceptional

I can't believe you even tried to blame me
'Cause you're the one who changed, I've been the same me
And I been by your side like a two way
And like a pager with no clamp that's how you lose me

So my friends come to help me get over you
'Cause they're sick 'n' tired of seeing what I'm goin' through
I put all of my things on the u haul
And I won't accept at all whenever you call

No conversation, you can keep your words
'Cause ninety percent I done already heard
How long did you think that I would sit here for?

I'm letting you know it's not exceptional

And no conversation, you can save the games
And anything you say, I will remain the same
How long did you think that I would sit here for?
Destroying my soul, it ain't exceptional

I should have left your ass long time ago
I was too scared to be out on my own
You made me feel there was no other way
And I won't find love, I would be lonely
You made me feel so damn low

Now take a look at what's happening
This is tragic like when Michael left the Jackson's
I told you, you should be careful what you're askin'
You wished I would have left you with some quiet time

But now you got more time than anytime
I know you never thought that I could jet out
But I left before you could tell me get out

No conversation, you can keep your words
'Cause ninety percent I done already heard
How long did you think that I would sit here for?
I'm letting you know it's not exceptional

And no conversation, you can save the games
And anything you say, I will remain the same
How long did you think that I would sit here for?
Destroying my soul, it ain't exceptional
Dis' distracting my, oh Lord, one more time
