Sweet summer night but I sweat through my sheets
Falling asleep, the AC squeaks
And a voice in the clock says you're not gonna get tired
My bed is a pool and the walls are on fire.

Soak my head in the sink for a while
Chills on my neck and it makes me smile
The moon starts to move and my skin's kinda green.
You pick up the phone--man I'm so relieved!

Yes I down your stairs to the heated street,
The sun is left as we slippery feat,
And I want to walk around with you
And I want to walk around with you
And be here with you, and roll out!

It doesn't really matter, I'll go where you feel
Hunt for the breeze, get a midnight meal.
I'll point in the windows, you point in the parks,
Rip up your sleeves and I'll ditch my socks

Dance to the salts in the cars as they pass,
Weave through the cardboard smell that trash
Walkin' around in our summerime clothes

Nowhere to go while I watch East glow

And we'll greet the dawn with morning blues,
With purple yarn you'll be sleeping soon
And I want to walk around with you
And I want to walk around with you,

When the sun goes up we'll go out again

Don't cool off,
I like your walk

I see the sound of the heat for the sound of the rain,
It's easy to sleep when it wets my brain.
I took my rest with a sack or in sheen
Kissin my wind through the window screen

The restless is caused so that I cannot hide
So much of my mind, man it spills outside
Do you wanna go stroll down the financial street?
I come with my good stroke but the buildings sleep

And there's no one pushing for a place
It's the end that has an ease of pace
And I want to walk around with you
And I want to walk around with you.
