Take a walk along the beach
You can feel it through your hair
See it on the strrets
It's in the air
Don't you need a little rest
You've been digging an endless hole
Let it calm your mind
And soothe your soul
You'll never find it
No matter where you go

The winds of Santa Ana
Are blowin' again
They'll blow away blow away your tears
The winds of Santa Ana
Are blowin' again
It's the same thing every year

Somethin' circles round your head
Like a cyclone comin' on
You turn around to see it
But it's gone
It travels from a place
You've never even seen
So lay your weary heart
Upon it's wings
It doesn't care if you're a beggar
Or a King

The winds of Santa Ana
Are blowin' again
They'll blow away blow away your tears
The winds of Santa Ana
Are blowin' again
It's the same thing every year
