I woke up this morning
With this anxious feeling
Here comes another day
Just like the other one
They're all the same
How can this be I'm stuck in this world
I don't want to live I don't want to live
I'm facing my greatest fear
With each new fallen opportunity
With each new fallen opportunity
I was born for more than this
And I was born to live my dreams
And I will not settle for life as it is Cause I was not made for average
Everybody living this way
Everyone else living the same
No one daring to dream
Rolling with life as it comes
It's that awful thing called average
