"Hey, daddy, there's a dragon in the driveway!
Momma, there's a grizzly on the lawn!
You better come quick, 'cause there's a hippo in the
bathtub,
And he's going down the drain--Oh, no!--he's gone."

Well the minds of little children,
They go round and round and round,
hearin' the giants' footsteps
When I never hear a sound.

I just hear,
"Hey, daddy, there's a dragon in the driveway!
Momma, there's a grizzly on the lawn!
You better come quick, 'cause there's a hippo in the
bathtub,
And he's going down the drain--Oh, no!--he's gone."

Well, you never know if they really saw all the things they'd have you believe,
but if there's dragons in this neighborhood,
then we're gonna leave,

singin', "Hey, daddy, there's a dragon in the driveway!
Momma, there's a grizzly on the lawn!
You better come quick, 'cause there's a hippo in the
bathtub,
And he's going down the drain--Oh, no!--he's gone."

And he's going down the drain--Oh, no!--he's gone."

And he's going down the drain--Oh, no!--he's gone."
