Turn on the lights
Step back and listen to my words
I'm tired of waiting for you to make it up in your mind
Let me out of here, let me breath again
Do something better than complaining
You are the only one to change yourself

You rise me up and spit me to the ground
Your selfishness is tearing us apart
There's nothing special in the sky
That you pretend to see
It's lonely cold and dark we know it both

Why are you afraid
To take the step beyond the borders?
We can never know
What is waiting there for us

It is a close call
So we can barely breath

It's always good enough for you
Not to change anything
I know you're just too scared
To say it all aloud

You're always so indifferent

And I won't waste my time on letting go
It's not worth dying for
And I won't chase your dreams instead of mine
It's not worth dying for

Stop being a fake
I'm watching you
Your lies turn you into a slave
If you're reading this
You're probably pretty close
To the day that will save us all

Now everyone listen
With your rotting hearts

It's not the way how things should be
It's not the way how things should be

Why are you afraid
To take the step beyond the borders?
We can never know
What is waiting there for us
