Now you can do everything you want
Whatever keeps you alive
Whatever makes you happy now
And play your stupid games yourself
Whatever keeps you alive
Whatever makes you satisfied

Over and over again
We're running in circles
And this story is growing old

You take these pictures off the wall
These walls can never hold us
And I see you're taking every chance to run
Wouldn't that be enough to hold you?
Do you have something to say before you go?

Over and over again
We're running in circles
And this story is growing old
Over and over again
We've been here before
But it seems like something remains untold

Hiding from the answers like before
We are falling faster to the floor

Wouldn't that be enough to hold you?
Do you have something to say before you go?
These walls can never hold us

Over and over again
We're running in circles
And this story is growing old
Over and over again
We've been here before
But it seems like something remains untold
