

Another Rising "Separation"

Visit "Separation" on MotoLyrics.com

And this dream it stays the same but lives are changed and these plans, that we make, sometimes are rearranged.

And the story that's told, are points from my perspective, to make this simple life, that's vague and undetected, the choices that we choose of lives away from pain, the pointless drama; the shit that drives me insane.

The fall that calls our name, the point it made to tell us we're wrong. tell us we're wrong, tell me i'm wrong.

And the story that's told, are points from her perspective to change this single boy and how his life's reflected a chance to get him back.

A chance to make things right about the lies he said and all the times they fight and even though it hurts you have to let it go, because those pretty smiles, they make us feel broken.

And our own defects are like a parasite, our lives created, to guide our path of light.

But things went right, when we went our own separate ways, i feel just fine. going our own ways

Visit Another Rising page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.