I just lost my last hope of happiness I watched her as she walked away
My mind was still numb by her leaving I guess for I thought of nothing to say And a moment from now when her steps fade away like the echo of her last goodbye Then I'll start reliving my yesterdays while all my tomorrows die

I should have known better but I took the chance I loved her with all of my heart What else could I do when even her glance pretend to tear me apart
And to live day by day knowing she won't return it's useless I won't even try So I'll start reliving my yesterdays while all my
tomorrows die
Oh yes I'll start reliving my yesterdays while all my tomorrows die
