If she should come to you

Be gentle

For she is very, very shy

Don't ever act unsentimental

She won't to stay then

She'll run far away then

If she should come to you

Remember that she'll

Believe your every word

And if she trusts you

She will give you her heart

So, remember if she comes to you

She's fashioned

From everything magic

Miraculous, marvelous love

Without her

Your world would be tragic

There'd be nothing but grieving

No laughter or joy or believing

If she should come to you

Be tender

You must take care

Or love will die

So understand her

And befriend her

Take my word

You must always defend her

Then when she comes to you

I'm certain she will stay
