[Verses by Demether; music by Eugen]

Moonlight trickleth through the clouds and the space converts to steam Left behind the rays of passion approach the nightmare of dead man's dream Far away nobody lives, and all enshrouded in darkness Ghost-fiends gnawing human bones, they are cruelty and madness!

It was their first mistake, it was their last mistake They've built the cemetery 'pon damned and holy place Against the azure sky and 'neath the paly moon
For triumphal entrance forth from the mother womb

There's no time and there's no freedom ye can't hide in Pluto's kingdom Dread and icy cold penetrateth through the evil eyes of sinner
He knows all about anguish only he has rights of winner Hence the cemetery's erected 'round the village start devildom

Welcome to asylum of the lost souls -- to the graveyard of the wild pain
Those who'll risk their lives at late night will be captives in the chill-steel rain Only there immortal soldiers lie in endless languish boredom
'Cause their souls have doomed for penance they must stay in racking thraldom

Ghosts are breathing o'er the graveyard -- fog spreads
'bove the sleeping hollow Screams of spirits melt in silence -- which could be the sole haven
Now the graveyard's full of demons -- they're inspiring fear and horror, Feeding by the pure mays' juice, nourishing with preux knights' gore

Gore!

There're only fearful woods around where birds of prey sing praise to death Olden mountains guide the feeble to the meeting with their last breath Beasts, which look like Hadean monsters waiting for the cruel murders They're just faithful sons of evil trying to be devils' soldiers

That's His domain, reign of dusk, blood and death with loud wargs' bark People can't revolt and fight, 'cause their souls are by His side

(There are wisdom and dolours of ages sojourn in the oblivion).
