There were times when you looked at yourself
You couldn't believe that you were someone else
And the World don't care

And you be thinking about the things you did
You are drowning in a world of sin
Baby you've got a chance

Coz I'll be waiting for you baby
Till the end of the World, End of Time
Don't you know what you mean to me
You're my destiny and my pride

When we're going down all alone
Take my hand I'll lead you home
And when? it's always NOW
Through the streets, when friends are few and far between

And now you're building walls around your heart
And you don't how and where to start
Baby you've got to try
Times are strange and times are going to change
And you know there's always a time and a place
Don't you hear what I say?

Coz I'll be waiting for you baby
Till the end of the World, End of Time
Don't you know what you mean to me
You're my destiny and my pride

When we're going down all alone
Take my hand I'll lead you home
And when? it's always NOW
Through the streets, friends are few and far between

But don't let this world get you down
You'll find your own way around... yeah you will Know that things are not what they seem
You will learn to believe in your own heart

When you're going down

All alone
When you need a friend
To call your own

I would be around to hear you out
Make you smile within and without
