We've Been Strangers - LYRICS

All lyrics by David Johnson

All I Hold

When I am alone
I am incomplete
But when I'm here with you
Maybe solitude is all that I need

Alone in the multitude
I'm standing right next to you in an empty room

Whether night or light

Whether sun or cold
You are all I hold
You are all I hold

When I'm far from home
Maybe home feels obsolete
'Cause when I'm marked by truth
No shelter houses me

If I'm just pondering what with this day to do
Or searching just for simple food
