We've Been Strangers - LYRICS

All lyrics by David Johnson

Daylight

We've been strangers
We've hid away
We've shied from danger
So where could we stay
Here in this truth
All that remains
Movement must be
The strength that sustains

My fist unfolds
Your hurt I'll hold

Here we are
Standing in the rain
Setting sail with the winds of change
Burning bright with the break of day-

Light breaks the dark and we are
Not the same

We've longed to stay here
Half a heart away
Content with anger
These words just complain
Near to the truth
But never in the fray
Movement must be
The strength that sustains

My fist unfolds
Your hurt I'll hold

Rain's flooded my eyes
Love's flooded my eyes
Love's flooded my eyes
