We've Been Strangers - LYRICS

All lyrics by David Johnson

The Coming Night

Hurting eyes see only pain
Dying skies pour only rain
We find solace knowing
We're all the same

And the cold wind will find us
This long road reminds us
These days are all burning
But through the fire
We are learning

All these lives that we've seen fade
The sands of time still drift away
The night seems steady growing
But we hold on to

(Today) You don't have to wait til your world is falling
(Today) Don't be afraid though the hurt's still calling
Breathe from your heart

Breaking with the scars of the dark
Shaking us awake inside
Breathe in, breathe in Alive.
Alive.

Memories are all that's left of the names
We see shattered skies
But true beauty never breaks

And the cold wind will find us
This long road reminds us
These days are all burning
But for more, we're still yearning

Breathe from your heart

Breathe in.

>You don't have to wait.
(Today) Don't be afraid.
Breathe from your heart
Breaking with the scars of the dark
Shaking us awake inside
Breathe in, breath in Alive.
Alive.
