Its hard to go on dreaming as my pockets get lighter
My friends all got older and left me alone
But Im still holding on to what Ive always known

I dont want to fit in
I dont care about popular opinion
Dont tell me what this life is Because I was made for this

My life is not a failure
These dreams will never die
My words wont go unspoken
While I am still alive

Our time is short
Its hard to make a mark
And do something that matters
But when this world forgets my face
I hope they dont forget this

The hope in my heart gets me back on my feet
I will conquer my fears
I spit in the face of defeat

I spit in the face of defeat

I need Your strength when my feet wont carry me
When Im failing and Ive fallen
Your strength is what I need
You carry me

Its hard to go on dreaming but I still try
My friends all got older and left me alone
But Im still holding on to what Ive always known

My life is not a failure
These dreams will never die
My words wont go unspoken
While I am still alive
