the sun goes down and once again it's time to waste away the week so well prepared to remedy the memory of anything and everything the glass

the poison
the way you turn into the one
you hate there's no stopping now i'm feeling fine i'm feeling weightless not a care in the world you never know exactly when it is you have gone too far just one more there's always night after night you are searching for something you cannot find so settle for some temporary peace of mind
