i'll make this slow and deliberate and i will tell you all the things that i've always wanted to about all the nights and the memories you're so hard to please and you know that i won't hesitate to say anything and you want to believe me i can see you hanging on every empty word i say reciting words that i don't mean but meant to say maybe i'm running out of chances but that won't change a single thing because i know exactly all the words you need to hear you're so hopeless and desperate
