i'll take control and toss the coin that i came to hold reap the crops i dared to sow within the days we roam seven sins for the weak to hold stronger men have gained control it's starting to sting

my days grown cold we hardly knew what we had to know we have left but not alone rain sway in southern planes whispers of the dead remain locked in bars and rusting through my veins could you kindly remind me why seldom the change and frequent the fire

a glance
to put it simply, death is at hand within those pale blue lifeless eyes bury your head surrender the trial

a glance
i set it free and gave it the chance to watch. you. die.

i'd take your life away consequences look the same soaked in blood or naked in the rain

to put it simply, death is at hand

a glance
i set it free and gave it the chance
to watch. you. die.

well i'll take your life away consequences look the same

to put it simply, death is at hand

a glance
i set it free and gave it the chance
to watch. you. die.
