tell me the story of the boy who lived in hell trapped in silence no-one there to keep him sane clandestine pain
total absence
coming back from the dead into a world of sorrow making no sense hear the voices in his head, see through his eyes pass through the gate of the banished citadel no turning backwards pray for mercy, to be free, an unchained soul disembodied

when are you coming home? you've been away too long too far you've wandered through the shadows and the dark depths of your mind

i'm still breathing , my heart's still beating

Beneath the arches of a cold and distant sky held in rapture infinite number , i am left to wonder why forever after through the darkest days of doubt your soul denied these warnings took no notice disbelieving with the end in clearest sight
