Is there a guy out there who can make me feel beautiful?

Even when I am unkempt he can still find me useful Never afraid to look me right into my eyes
Because I know on how I look, he won't tell a lie
Honest and sincere and can back up his words
He can tell me what is really and truly my worth

I could run into his arms with no make up on
And he'd still be making love to me all life long
Even in my ugliness he'd write me love songs
Stay on the phone with me when it all goes wrong

Is he right around the corner or a million miles away?
And when I come to meet him will I know just what to say?
How do you find the words to make it all seem so right
Will I find him in a decade or will he be mine tonight?
Every question in my head tells me another tale
Of how love falls into place and how we will never fail

He would look at me with love with no make up on my face
Never find my blemishes to be anything like disgrace
Taking me into his arms and never put me in my place
The way he'd make me happy would send my head into space

I need love
Can't get enough
Such a rush
With just a touch

I feel him near
With every tear
Wipes away my fears
Lends me an ear

I could run into his arms with no make up on
And he'd still be making love to me all life long
Even in my ugliness he'd write me love songs
Stay on the phone with me when it all goes wrong

He would look at me with love with no make up on my face
Never find my blemishes to be anything like disgrace
Taking me into his arms and never put me in my place
The way he'd make me happy would send my head into
space
