You put your trust in a broken soul
You're reckless and I've lost control
Through these lies and all the dust
I've lost myself
I'm out of touch
You are empty now
You tore apart my heart
And nothing seems the same
You left me alone
Because of all your games
You came crawling back
And claimed you were my friend
And I trusted you
But you betrayed me in the end
Every breath I take crushes my lungs
Because I can't get you out of my life
You did this to yourself
You play the victim part so well
And though you always see me as weak
I've been reborn in ways you'll never know
Beneath the damsel in distress
Lies a shallow selfish heart
Wearing the mask of innocence
You can't escape yourself
We're through
