Why do you keep holding on to this pain
Could there be healing in surrender
Wake up, wake up
When will you see
That the thing you're in love with
Is out to get you
When will you see
That it's out, out to get you
So it hits you so hard
And you don't feel a thing
You're just left with these scars
But you hold nothing

This is not the end
So sing for hope and new beginnings
Life isn't over yet
You're not alone or the only one
Who's ever felt like this before

And don't you ever think
That it's too late
To crawl back up this road you've wandered down
It doesn't matter where you've been
Everything fixed was once broken
You are not alone
And you can overcome this

This is not the end
So sing for hope and new beginnings
Life isn't over yet
You're not alone or the only one
Who's failed and fallen down before
But now you'll stand
And you will see that
Life isn't over yet
You're not alone or the only one
Who's ever felt like this before

But there comes a time
When you have to ask yourself
Is it worth more than your life
Cause it might be killing you
