Taking back every word that I said
Taking back every word that I said

You were so euphoric I saw the future in your eyes
A Cascade of emotion brings me to the summit of defeat
My trust was misplaced like the truth in a sea of lies
You're more content barefoot on coals
Then to deal with feelings trapped inside, your trapped inside

Trapped inside, coalesce distrust personified
Fear unrealized, will paint the future black as night
Just let go, have you felt what it is to fly
Soar above, the right path is never justified

You said, "They wouldn't ever affect you", you promised you lied
You were strong enough to make your own decisions
But evidently your own two feet just weren't enough to stand on

Tell me how you feel after what you just said
Tell me how should I feel after what you just said
How should I feel

Tell me how should I feel after what you just said
How should I feel
Tell me how should I feel after what you just said
How should I feel

You are nothing you mean nothing
You are nothing you mean nothing

Just like a child, I wish I could close my eyes
And you would dissipate
Just like a child, I wish I could close my eyes
Let my tears evaporate

Please stay away from me you've done far too much harm
