Oh, seasons change
Faster than switching lanes
We're driving fast on the interstate,
Trying hard to get away from everything that keeps us down,
Like all the people in this fucking town
We're on our way to our escape.
She's the pace that we run away

And don't you even fall asleep tonight
Cause we're gonna leave this behind.

Drive around the city
Flashing headlights on the world outside
With windows down, the music's loud
The stars outside they burn like fire
And oh it's a shame these nights will never change
And oh, it's a shame, that these nights will never change

People change, but it's hard to break the chain
Sometimes this life is so mundane.
I'm sick of sleep in a dreamy state.

So maybe we should start a riot.
And burn it down and start a fire
Either way it's much too late
To try and make a quick escape

And don't you even fall asleep tonight
Cause we're gonna leave this place behind.

Drive around the city
Flashing headlights on the world outside
With windows down, the music's loud
The stars outside they burn like fire
And oh it's a shame these nights will never change
And oh, it's a shame, that these nights will never
change

Don't say you're sorry
Just listen up,

It's not your fault that this town's so rough
These nights are villains
Masked as thieves
Who steal ambition before they flee

We're on our way to our escape
Let's change the pace and run away

We'll run away
So we can

Drive around the city
Flashing headlights on the world outside
With windows down, the music's loud
The stars outside they burn like fire
And oh it's a shame these nights will never change
And oh, it's a shame, that these nights will never
change
