I wonder if we'll ever see through this
I wonder if we'll ever come undone
I wonder if the world will fall apart
Before we get a chance to get it right
And we've seen everything a million times
And we've heard all about tomorrow
And we've done everything a million times
Yet we're still scared to see tomorrow
And everything changes
I've never been the one to move so fast
I've always been the one to finish last
I wonder if the world will fall apart
I don't think that we have a chance at all
And we've seen everything a million times
And we've heard all about tomorrow
And we've done everything a million times
Yet we're still scared to see tomorrow
And everything changes
You're not helping me yet
And everything we know is wrong
So now we'll get it right
And we've seen everything a million times
And we've heard all about tomorrow
And we've done everything a million times
Yet we're still scared to see tomorrow
And everything changes
And the world is screaming for something new
And the world is screaming for something new
And the world is screaming for something new
And the world is screaming
