I watch you bleed as you proceed to beg for mercy Your cuts run deep; soon you will sleep and never haunt me
The pool of red beside your head expands beneath my feet
Your foolish lies have caused your cries because of your deceit

Your fucking skin will burn to your bones when I am done with you

I live for nothing more than to see you torn apart Wrapped up in barbed wire shredding your skin across these rocks
Razors in between each tooth as I force your jaws shut Needles through your pupils dilating into rust

Shattered hopes match the bones that lay in pieces Across the ground where not a sound is heard for ages Before you burn, who will you turn to asking salvation?
Your wounds infect what's left of flesh that rots under the sun

This torture on which you succumb knows neither of the god nor the devil Fear me and no one else, for I will put you through my own hell
