Looks like you're back to where you were Back into the hole you dug yourself
When your intent was pure
But you don't stand quite as tall as you did five years before
And we won't throw you any form of slack to help you anymore

Give it up don't waste your time
You're using your efforts to inflate your pride
The only thing you'll change is your face
We all know there's nothing you're willing to save but yourself

You started off just fine but changed inside
And after breathing it in The transformation begins
I'll say "Hey, look Jude there's a tail I'm telling you
And underneath that shriveled skin
There's a monster than sleeps inside"

Give it up don't waste your time
You're using your efforts to inflate your pride
The only thing you'll change is your face
We all know there's nothing you're willing to save but

You think we'll fall for this again
We'll never let you back in
If I could she'd this wrecked skin I'd earned every flake

Give it up just give it up
You're wasting your time to think that we'll save you
